Zebras

Zebras are beautiful animals, which live across the whole of Africa. There are three species, or types: Grevy zebras, mountain zebras and plains zebras. Like horses, they are all part of the equidae family. There are about 700,000 zebras. There are more plains zebras than the other species. Zebras can reach speeds of up to 65 kilometres an hour. Horses can run at 80 kilometres an hour, but they run differently. Zebras run from side to side, not in a straight line. This can help them to run away from lions.

Zebras live in large groups. A group of zebras is called a zeal or a dazzle. The leader of the group is the stallion. Sometimes zebras make a bigger group with antelopes or other animals. This makes it more challenging for lions to attack them.

Every zebra has a different black and white stripes. The stripes help zebras hide in long grass, they keep the animal cool and keep insects away. Under the black and white coat, zebras have black skin. Baby zebras are brown. In the wild, zebras usually live for about 25 years, but they can live longer in zoos.

Zebras have marvellous hearing. They can turn their ears in any direction. The ears of a zebra show how it feels. If it is scared it pushes them forwards. If it's angry, the ears go backwards.

For questions 1-3, please answer in complete sentences. (2 marks each)
